4 _ REPORTING VIOLATIONS OF THE CODE OF ETHICS

5 _ SANCTIONS

1 _ MISSION AND VALUES

This Code of Ethics is based on our mission, vision and values. Our mission defines our place in the world, the value we offer our customers and the markets and the commitments we have made to all those involved in our business.

The company's vision aims at increasing people's wellness and life quality.

Our values guide us and define the rules of behaviour which must be adhered to by colleagues, customers and suppliers.

Labomar constantly looks to the future and build any actions on the basis of five guiding and inspiring values, which are the following:

- Customer orientation
- Team spirit
- Passion for excellence
- Well-being and sustainability
- Coherence

Although the Code of Ethics addresses many specific situations, it cannot provide for all of them. Therefore, Labomar's mission, vision and values serve as an inspiration and reference point for any situations which is not specifically covered by the Code of Ethics, as well as behavioural guidelines driving the company's actions.

Accordingly, this Code is a tool for implementing Labomar's ethical, social and environmental responsibility, also setting out the whole of rights, duties and responsibilities towards all stakeholders.

Mission, vision and values form the foundation on which all corporate decisions must be based.

This Code of Ethics is an integral part of the company's Organisational, Managerial and Control Model in accordance with articles 6 and 7 of Italian Legislative Decree no. 231/2001.

2 _ PRINCIPLES OF BEHAVIOUR

2_1 Fairness and honesty

Labomar operates in compliance with Italian law and, as applicable, with the legislation in force in the other countries in which it operates, as well as in accordance with professional ethics.

Under no circumstances shall the pursuit of Labomar's interests justify conduct that does not comply with the principles of fairness, honesty, respect and professionalism.

Labomar is aware of the importance of the rights and merits of others, of the moral and cultural value of every person, of respect towards people and the things around us, of respect for society and the rules of common decency, as well as the intellectual potential of each and every one of us.

It therefore does not allow any kind of benefit, whether received or offered, that could be construed as a way of influencing the independence of judgment or conduct of those involved.

Practices of corruption, illegitimate favours, collusive behaviour, solicitation, whether direct or through third parties, of personal benefits for oneself or for others, are strictly prohibited.

Acts of commercial courtesy, such as gifts or hospitality, are permitted when they are of modest value and do not compromise the integrity or reputation of either party and cannot be construed, by an impartial observer, as intended to gain improper benefits.

2_2 Conflict of interest

Every aspect of Labomar's business is carried out to avoid conflicts of interest, whether real or only potential, which may interfere with its ability to make impartial decisions in the company's best interests and in full compliance with the rules of this Code.

The following situations are examples of conflicts of interest:

- economic and financial interests of an employee and/or their family in their capacity as suppliers, customers and competitors;
- use of their position within the company or of information acquired in their work in such a manner as to create a conflict between their personal interests and those of the company;
- carrying out any kind of work at customers', suppliers' or competitors' premises;
- acceptance of money, favours or benefits from people or companies which are in or intend to enter into a business relation with Labomar.

2_3 Free competition

Labomar believes in free and fair competition, a determining factor for the growth and continuous improvement of the company.

2_4 Human rights

Labomar believes in fundamental human rights and respects the dignity of all human beings, in accordance with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights drawn up by the United Nations. Labomar therefore undertakes:

- Not to use or promote child, forced or compulsory labour within the framework of company operations. 'Child labour' is defined as any work performed by children under the legal age, which can vary from country to country;
- Not to use any kind of forced labour, slavery or bonded labour and refrain from any conduct which resorts to threats, use of force or any form of coercion, abduction, intimidation, reprisal or abuse of power to exploit anyone;
- To avoid any kind of discrimination based on age, racial and ethnic origin, nationality, political opinions, religious beliefs, gender, trade union membership or health conditions;
- To comply with labour laws in force regarding working hours and remuneration, respecting regulations on the national minimum wage and the respective employment contracts in the sector, also in terms of working hours, overtime and compensation required by law;
- To respect employees' right to join any trade union without fear of retaliation.
- To avoid any form of physical, psychological and verbal abuse in the work environment and/or promoting diversity, fairness and inclusion of all employees.
- To comply with the above, also considering direct and indirect effects, arising from the company's operations, in terms of human rights with regard to the external stakeholders and all interested parties.

2_5 Professionalism and enhancing the value of resources

Labomar is committed to innovating and continuously improving its products and processes, developing a reputation for excellence on the market. Labomar undertakes to guarantee full and productive employment and decent work for everyone, while fostering the diversity and inclusion of its employees.

The company encourages all its employees to strive for efficiency and efficacy, encouraging a dynamic attitude and passion for growth.

Labomar guarantees an adequate degree of professionalism in the execution of the tasks it entrusts to its employees, so they are aware and have a full understanding of their role within the company.

It considers focusing on results, meeting deadlines and prompt intervention and response important.

To this end, it works to develop the skills of its human resources, providing them with appropriate training and opportunities for further education and growth, encouraging improvement through continuous education, innovation and openness to change.

2_6 Confidentiality

In compliance with current legislation, Labomar guarantees the confidentiality of the information in its possession.

Labomar workers are forbidden to use or disclose “confidential” information for purposes other than carrying out their professional activity.

All company workers are required to sign a special agreement, agreeing they will not disclose confidential information they may become acquainted with in the performance of their work.

2_7 Protecting workers’ health and safety

All Labomar employees, irrespective of the kind of contractual relationship, are ensured dignified working conditions in safe and healthy workplaces.

In particular Labomar:

- considers compliance with legislation and agreements regarding the health and safety of workers to be a priority;
- considers the management of the health and safety of its workers an integral part of the overall management of the organisation;
- promotes the involvement, cooperation and collaboration of all company resources in matters regarding the health and safety of its workers;
- guarantees the necessary resources to effectively deal with problems regarding health and safety in the workplace.
- implements strict protocols in order to ensure cleanliness and hygiene in the workplaces, as well as the availability of suitable personal protective equipment for the purpose of health and safety.

2_8 Environmental protection

Labomar is committed to the protection of the environment and the local area. All its decisions are made to ensure compatibility between its economic initiative and the needs of the environment, in compliance with current legislation. In particular, it supports the development of the communities it works in, contributing to their economic and social well-being and respecting the rights of the local people and the importance of their traditions, culture and social heritage. To this end, Labomar undertakes to act responsibly towards the environment when conducting its business, striving, wherever possible, to minimise the negative impact of its activities.

2_9 Use of the company’s intellectual and material assets

The intellectual and material assets of the company, including its IT tools, must be used in compliance with general rules, their intended use and IT Rules and in such a way to protect their conservation and functionality, avoiding use that is in violation of any law.
